Table J3: Nature Reserve Activities

Name	Size (ha)	Approximate Distance from Proposed Project (km)	Recreational Activities
Brigade Bay Bluffs Nature Reserve	5.0	7.9	The reserve is open to the Brigade Bay subdivision for public use, but due to the steep terrain, has limited recreational opportunities.
Long Bay Wetland Nature Reserve	37.0	8.6	The reserve is open to visitors enjoying light recreational activities, such as walking and nature appreciation. No camping, fires, hunting or motorized vehicles are allowed.
Mount Artaban Nature Reserve	105.0	9.7	The summit offers hiking with views of Howe Sound and the Coast Mountains. Camping is not permitted on Mount Artaban or within the nature reserve boundaries. Hunting and motorized vehicles are not permitted.
David Otter Nature Reserve	3.0	18.7	The reserve is primarily a riparian area that is difficult to access without eroding the steep banks that cradle the reserve's creeks. Human use of the reserve, even light walking, could destroy the ecosystems this reserve was created to protect and visitors are asked to refrain from venturing into this nature reserve.
Singing Woods Nature Reserve	9.0	20.7	The reserve is open to the local community for light recreational use, such as walking and nature appreciation. No camping, fires, or motorized vehicles are allowed.
Fairy Fen Nature Reserve	18.0	23.3	Hikers can access the nature reserve using former logging roads. Due to the sensitive nature of the peat and the unique plants it supports, footsteps in the fen can last years and degrade the health of this unique place. Visitors are therefore asked view the fen from the outskirts of the clearing.
